

online research seminar

Australian reform of temporary migration

Responding to economic and community pressures

12 September 2024, 10h00-11h30 (GMT +2)

program

10h00-10h10 Welcome Address

Marco Rocca, CNRS - Université de Strasbourg (UMR 7354)

10h10-10h50 Main lecture

Kate Golebiowska, Charles Darwin University (Australia)

10h50-11h30 Discussion with the E-BoP Team and the public

description

The dynamics of global migration bring challenges and opportunities and profoundly influence the economic and social structures in Australia. Following its election in May 2022, the Labor Federal Government in Canberra began an extensive review and reform of the national migration framework, underscoring the role of migration policy in Australia's present and future trajectory. In this presentation, Golebiowska will focus on temporary migration. Golebiowska will discuss why the reform was deemed necessary by the government; the specific temporary migration streams that the reform is addressing; community concerns and what outcomes may be expected when the reform is complete.

Kate Golebiowska is a Senior Research Fellow at Charles Darwin University in Darwin (Australia). Her research explores the intersection of immigration policy, economics, and social structures and their influence on migrants' economic and social participation. Kate holds a PhD in Public Policy from the Australian National University in Canberra and an MA in Political Science from the University of Warsaw. She was an Australian Fulbright scholar at Emory University in Atlanta (2023) and currently serves as the Vice-President of the Australian Population Association.

Prior registration required:

<https://us06web.zoom.us/meeting/register/tZUvf--qrD4uG9UsawAdxaAM9Osnjfamuill>